

If I choose to pay for a subscription to XM Radio, why in heaven's name would someone have an issue with that fee for service subscription providing me as much information as possible. This has nothing to do with freedom of the airwaves - which I support. It has to do with airtime competition -I am not going to stop listening to free broadcasting just because I have subscription radio. This is a waste of time for the NAB to worry about.